

The Eightfold Path – Morality

Copy and underline the title ‘The Eightfold Path – Morality’ into your exercise book.

Below are the starts and ends of sentences explaining three parts of the Eightfold Path. Match them up correctly and copy them into your books.

Buddhists believe we should practise Right Speech this means we should only take jobs that help people, like being a nurse.

Buddhists believe we should practise Right Action this means we should only speak when it will help other people, like telling someone when they are about to trip over something.

Buddhists believe we should practise Right Livelihood this means we should act in ways which help other people, like handing in lost property.

Now try to give an example of your own for each rule.
